Agree Or Not

I Say What I Think

By A. G. VAN CUREN

Speculation has been wild on the effect the Appeals Court ruling on assessment at fair cash value on property will have in tax costs.

It doesn't go into effect until January 1, 1966, but a lot of people have the misconception that school, city and county taxes levied in July will be on the 100 per cent cash value assessment ratio.

One thing the taxpayers overlook is Gov. Edward T. Breathitt's pledge that he would not increase taxes during his term. He has repeatedly said he fully intends to honor this pledge.

There is only one interpretation that can be placed on the governor's action in the 1966 legislature in the light of his reaffirmation of this pledge last week. He must come up with a legislative package of adjustments that will keep it.

Several of the state levies are set by statute, for instance the five cents per $100 valuation on real estate, the rate on whiskey in storage, tobacco in storage, livestock and other personal property. He would have to come up with a reduction in rates to keep the tax cost the same.

It is known now that he has the Department of Revenue under Commissioner James E. Luckett making an exhaustive study in this field now, and it is a reasonable assumption that he will ask for rate reductions to keep his pledge at the state level. The governor also will insist that school boards, county and city officials reduce rates to a level where the income will be approximately the same as present and not be burdensome to the people.

The governor said late last week, "Whatever the rate is now, it must be reduced to compensate for the increase in assessed value."

He said the public deserves to be reassured now that it will be created fairly—that tax rate will be reduced.

The governor doesn't know until the Revenue Department completes its study the method to be used to keep his promise, but he is insistent on that one point. He could, and probably will, reduce the production tax on whiskey to the point where the cost to the industry will be about the same as present, or it could be taken off entirely if it is found that the advalorem tax would fill the gap thus lost.

Luckett has insisted that rate and not assessment should be the controlling factor in figuring tax bills. The rate should fluctuate to produce needed revenue for schools and government costs and not assessments as is now the case with schools where the top rate of $1.50 is levied.

Breathitt pointed out that the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce had Spindletop Research make a study on the effect of the Court's ruling on the distilling industry. He is thinking within the framework of this study.

The governor has voiced his concern for retired people, those living on fixed incomes and the small farm owners. "They should not suffer an abrupt skyrocketing of taxes. The court opinion clearly does not intend for this to happen. As long as I am governor, it will not happen," he said.

He indicated to me in a private interview he thought it would be a good idea for State School Supt. Harry Sparks to call a meeting of all school superintendents to fully explain the Court's ruling and to caution them not to be burdensome with tax rates. He indicated he might suggest that Sparks ask Commissioner Luckett to meet with them and explain the total picture and caution them not to endanger their future by levying a heavy rate after January 1, 1966.

"One little bill in the legislature, reducing the rate of $1.50 could wreck the whole program," Breathitt said. This is the safeguard weapon the people have if school people, county and city officials get out of line," he explained.

Sparks said the school people are looking into the possibility of asking bond holders, where the rate is written into the indentures, to let the rate be lowered in light of increased assessments to produce only the needed revenue to retire the bonds and pay interest when due.

Breathitt asked the people to be calm, not go off in all directions without having the full facts. His parting remark to me was that the people should be reassured that the taxes will not be overly burdensome under the Court's ruling.

Duff Family Has Annual Reunion Sunday, June 20

By M. S. Hale Bowling

The family of Mrs. Jean Duff had their family reunion Sunday, June 20. All five of her children were here for the occasion. They were Mrs. Theodore Chustmon of Felicity, Ohio; Mrs. Varge Cornett, of Huntsville, Ala.; Mrs. Custer Crose, of Ohio; Mr. Frank Duff, of Lexington; and Mrs. John Gross and Mrs. Hale Bowling, both of Chavies. There were 27 in all. Mr. Scott E. Duff also was here.

Little Debby White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fed White, was taken to the hospital Monday. Her mother, Nell, who has also been in the hospital, is back home now.

Three girls left Monday morning going to 4-H Camp at Levi Jackson State Park. They were: Jeannie Gross, Liada Bailey, and Helen Spencer.

John Frank Gross is in Lexington this week visiting his cousins, Gary and Kenny Duff.

Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Begley, of Hamilton, Ohio, have been visiting Mr. Begley's mother, Mrs. Minta Begley.

Mrs. Vertie Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Spencer and children and Mrs. Georgia Cox and daughter, of Lexington, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Brenton Davidson and Mrs. Alice Davis. While here, they visited the Red Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Jane Hurt is in the Appalachian Hospital. We all wish her a speedy recovery.

CHRISTOPHER

Doris Reeves Feted On 13th Birthday

By Mrs. Ernest Fritts, Sr.

Eugene McPherson, of Washington, D. C., spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George McPherson.

Miss Doris Reeves, of Lakeland, Florida, who is visiting relatives here, was honored with a surprise birthday dinner Saturday evening at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Bill Shackelford of Blackey. Doris was 13.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fritts, Jr. and family, of Hazard, were guests of the elder Fritts' on Sunday, Father's Day.

Mr. Phillip Allen, who is working in Campbellsville, spent the weekend with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Shackelford entertained Sunday with a "cook out" at their home. Several from out of town attended the get-together. Mrs. Shackelford is the daughter of Corless Reeves and has a host of relatives here.

Mrs. Homer Wilson and sons, of Dayton, Ohio, were weekend guests of friends and relatives here.

Roger Teague, of Blackey, was guest of Richard Reeves, Monday. Roger attended the young people's party at the church Monday night.

Mr. George McPherson has entered the Veterans Hospital in Lexington.

Mrs. Harlan Gross, with the help of some of the ladies of the church, entertained with a "cook out" on the church lawn Monday evening. A large crowd of young people attended. Following the meal they all gathered in the recreation lobby of the church and enjoyed games, contests, and quizzes. "A prosperous church is a working church."

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Lottier Methodist Church held its regular monthly meeting at the church Friday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Everett Bush, was in charge of the program. Mrs. Harlan White presented the lesson, "The Value of Prayer." Following the lesson the business session was held and a report was given on the sale of cook books. Refreshments of ice cream, cake, and drinks were served to the eleven members present.

Openings Available In O.C.S. For Graduates

Sergeant Griffin, local US Army recruiter, has announced openings for male college graduates in the Army's new Officer Candidate School Enrollment Option Program.

Sergeant Griffin states that the Army will guarantee enrollment in Officer Candidate School to qualified male college graduates between 18½ and 27. ROTC is not required if the applicant's college did not offer ROTC, or if the applicant was unable to participate in the program.

The initial enlistment for the OCS program is two years. The school itself is for 39 weeks. Following graduation, the candidate receives a commission as a second lieutenant in the US Army and then serves two years on active duty.

Two Officer Candidate Schools, the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Georgia, and the Artillery School at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, are available. Qualified enlistees may select the school of their choice.

Interested college seniors should submit their applications as soon as possible. Those men who have already graduated from college need only show proof of graduation.

Sergeant Griffin can be contacted by visiting him in his office at Hazard Post Office or calling 436-4213.

Folks as of this date June 21, 1965 we are entering into the real hot summer months. Come what may we are facing some real hot weather, which is not unusual for the months of June, July and August. Many of you tell me that your gardens are in fine shape. I would like to know what you do about the weeds that are growing about as fast as the vegetables. Time sure does play a big figure at this time of year. You that do have the time to weed can sure have a pretty garden. We who have to pick our time its rough.

THERE COMES A TIME

When the passing of some loved one always enters into the picture of this column. Recently the passing of Cora Belle Minor the wife of Commissioner Minor Clark's wife, who is head of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. Many of you didn't know her in person such as your writer of this column. She was a devoted person to the many needs of all of us, as she followed closely in the paths of Minors, his worries were hers. She was a devoted wife to Minor and his problems were hers also. To me these things only prove that a man must share his problem with his wife. This I know that Cora Belle did. She was as much interested in the seasons opening to the benefit of the sportsmen. She like Minor she wanted the sportsmen to have what was for the best. In this hour of his great loss I believe that I can offer in behalf of you that own hunting and fishing license in the state of Kentucky, your condolences to the entire family of Minor Clark and Cora Belle. May the blessings of above be bestowed upon all of you in this hour of your sorrow. Yes from a greater source than we can ever realize here on earth.

FISHING HAS BEEN

FROM GREAT to better from what BOB CAUSEY SAYS. He has weighed in about 58 pounds so far at Tom Myeres store on Grapevine. I would say others will have to get on a hustle to beat this. Fish have been hitting very well on Buckhorn Lake. Hoover Haynes snatched him a four and a half pounder a few days ago, have heard of a few three to four pounders being caught, plus a five and a half pounder caught. Boys they are hitting.

YOU THAT HAVE Had Trouble Catching Fish Get your self some small crawfish drum on the move. They are on the move in the streams right now, so is blue cats, Elhanon Crawford Jim Deaton and Jess Noble all report a fine catch of blue gills, Buckhorn Lake is really coming into its own.

YOUR GARDENERS

Here is a little piece of advice, Jim Cornett up the river way states that if you will take a corn cob just do it into some pine tar then stick it down into your melon hills, also too cucumber hills that it will kill all type bugs off.

Not Too Long Ago

In one of our rural schools, the teacher noticed that the kids were using their sleeves on their coats and jackets to wipe their noses' one. This teacher was trying to be real polite to the kids. He approached the subject, one of teacher doesn't know how to spell SNOT then he doesn't have any business teaching school. They got their books and headed home.

Joe Wells, New L.L. President

Bill Craft, longtime president of the Hazard Little League Baseball Program has turned over the main duties to his long time assistant Joe Wells.

Craft, an engineer with the Department of Mines and Minerals, has been transferred to Madisonville, Kentucky forcing him to give up the league presidency.

Wells has been vice-president of the popular summer recreation program for boys for the past five years.

"This is a great program," Craft said during an interview last Saturday afternoon. "We started this program with 10 teams, but we have 17 now," now," Craft added.

The local unit is made up of the Minor Babe Ruth and Little Leagues.

This year and entry in each league from Vico has been taking part in the action.

The Summer Baseball Program in Hazard has been the most important thing in the lives of its participants for the past several years.

Several graduates of the program have gone on to make it big with the local high school teams in the area.

Each year the Summer Baseball League stages a big show for the Fourth of July holiday.

An inter league all-star game and a fantastic fireworks display high light the days activity.

"I am going to do the best I can," Wells said earlier this week. Of Craft he had this to say, "I don't think anyone has worked harder at this than Mr. Craft."

Wells joined the program in 1959 and has been an active booster for the past six years.

No new policies will be created according to Wells.

The new president has announced a meeting for tonight at Collins Field, following the games, to work out plans for the Fourth of July Program.

Duff And Muncy To Enter Kentucky

Two former Hazard High School Football stars are among this group of athletes at Staunton, Military Academy, Staunton, Virginia, that will enroll at various major colleges and universities this fall. Bobby Muncy and Curt Duff will enroll at the University of Kentucky this fall on football scholarships. Muncy and Duff were standouts for Hazard High School two years ago. Duff is shown kneeling at left and Muncy is standing at far right.

Hunting Seasons Broken Down By State Officials

Liberalized seasons on a number of species of wildlife were doled out to Kentucky hunters at a meeting of the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission today in the offices of Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Minori Clark.

The nine commissioners vote-wide, will begin on December 1 and continue through December 31. The bag limit is again six with 12 in possession after hunting two or more days of hunting. A squirrel season beginning on August 14 and continuing through October 15 has been set for the following wildlife management areas: Ballard County, West Kentucky, Central Kentucky and Curtis Gates Loyd. All rifles of .243 caliber and above and shotguns with slug ammunition will be permitted on the West Kentucky Management area.

A season beginning on Thursday, November 18, was set for rabbit and quail but no ending date has been designated. The bag and possession limits for rabbits are unchanged at eight and 16 and for quail at 10 and 20. Special seasons and bag dog owners who have unlimited limits have been set for several time in which to train their dogs.

The gun deer season will open on November 10 and extend through November 14 in the designated counties. Again this year the rabbit and quail season will open on the third Thursday in November, the 18th, but an ending date for those seasons has not been set.

The counties in which only antlered deer may be legally harvested are: Lewis, Greenup, Fleming, Rowan, Bath, Menifee, Morgan, Wolfe, Powell, Estill, Lee, Breathitt, Jackson, Owsley, Perry, Knott, Floyd, Letcher, Leslie, Clay, Laurel, Rockcastle, Pulaski, a section of Wayne, McCreary, Whitley, Harlan, and Bell County, which is opened this fall for the first time.

New counties in which deer of either sex may be taken in a one day season, Saturday, November 13 are: Webster, Daviess, Muhlenberg, Butler, Grayson and Casey.

Counties in which either sex deer may be harvested are: Livingston, Crittenden, Union, Lyon, Caldwell, Hopkins, McLean, Trigg, Christian, Todd, Logan, Warren, Edmonson, Hart, Green, Taylor, Barren, Metcalfe, Adair, Cumberland, Monroe, Ohio, Hancock, Breckinridge, Meade, Hardin, Bullitt, Larue, Nelson and Marion.

Special seasons were set for a number of management areas and army installations except no deer or squirrel hunting will be permitted on Robinson Forest.

A split deer archery season in all 64 counties open to gun hunters, plus Anderson and Woodford counties, was set with the beginning date being October 1 and the closing on November 5. A second season was adopted to run from December 1 through December 10. This is an extension of 14 days over the 1964 season. Deer of either sex may be harvested by the archery hunters.

A split season, extended by 16 days over last year, statewide, for squirrel was set with the opening date of the first phase being on August 14 and continuing through October 31.

through February 28 with the bag and possession limits being four and eight.

Two spring turkey gobbler seasons were set for the same 12 county areas in which the hunts were held last year. No fall hunt, in which both sexes were harvested last year, was set. The spring dates in the particular area will be April 22 through April 24 and April 29 through May 1. The limit is one gobbler per year per hunter.

A primitive weapons season in a specified area of Bath and Menifee counties was decreed again, which will be open to all species during their regular hunting seasons statewide but with only primitive weapons—crossbows, longbows, muzzle-loading rifles and muzzle-loading shotguns—permitted.

Kiwanis Club Hears Cooner Speak On Rescue Squad

At the regular weekly Kiwanis dinner-meeting at Don's Tuesday, May 15, program chairman, W. G. (Mutt) McKinney, introduced Mr. John Barron Cooner who presented the history and activities of the PERRY COUNTY RESCUE SQUAD. In an interesting manner, Mr. Cooner pointed out that the PCRS is made up of some twenty local members organized similarly to a civic club in that it is a non-profit organization whose members receive no compensation for their services.

On the contrary PCRS members always available to render first-aid and ambulance service to accident and disaster victims, their personal vehicles and furnish gasoline and other expenses necessary to carry on this or intent to replace commercial under-published, humanitarian ambulance service for routine, service. The Perry County Rescue Squad receives no funds for lack of equipment (as co- from any local, state or federal trust to well-equipped units agencies. During the three at Harlan, Pikeville and other years PCRS has been organized, regional towns), Kiwanians, operating funds have been ob-nevertheless, were shown an tained only through "bucket brigade" contributions from currently being used by the PCRS. This is but one example of the sort of equipment needed by the local unit.

Mr. Cooner said, "To belong to PCRS. Not only in money and time, but each member is 'on call' twenty-four hours each day, seven days each week to go anywhere at any time for unpredictable hours or days." However, Mr. Cooner went on to say, "The expense is sometimes off-set by the knowledge that, because of our efforts, possibly a life was saved and or suffering was relieved."

While the Rescue Squad is son should contact Mr. Cooner,

Mr. Vernon Cooper, or any member of the PERRY COUNTY RESCUE SQUAD.

Visitors and guests of the club included Rev. W. R. Wood, newly-assigned pastor of Bowman Memorial Methodist Church, Gilberto Hinojosa, son of Jack and Ann Caudill, and Frank Gillespie, visiting Kiwanian from the Lexington Kiwanis Club.

'Head Start' Classes Being Urged For Pre-Schoolers

Direct encouragement to enroll pre-school children in Project Head Start this summer is being given by State public assistance workers to parents who receive welfare benefits.

Economic Security Commissioner C. Leslie Dawson said notices are being sent and social workers are contacting the parents, who receive Aid to Families with Dependent Children in any part of the state or who are enrolled under the 18-county work experience and training program in Eastern Kentucky.

The letters explain the project and ask parents to enter their children in the pre-school classes set up under the program.

The purpose of Project Head Start is to help children overcome problems imposed on them by poverty and to prepare them to face life and school with a better chance of success, Dawson said. Head Start projects are carried out through local schools with the aid of Federal economic opportunity funds.

Classes for children who will enter school for the first time this fall are being started by many schools in June or July, lasting for about eight weeks.

"Children will learn to work and play with other children under the supervision of a teacher and will get used to the many new things that attendance in school requires," Dawson said. "Conditions of poverty in the home often impose handicaps on the children long after they enter the first grade, and Head Start will give each boy or girl involved a much better chance."

J. Stephen Watkins, left, chairman of the Study Committee of the Kentucky Better Roads Council, presents to Highway Commissioner Henry Ward the 20-page examination of Highway Department financing and a conclusion that Kentuckians should approve the $176 million bond issue in November. Mr. Watkins of Lexington was highway commissioner under the late Governor Simeon Willis. He also is a vice president of the roads organization.

Cunningham Works In Puerto Rico; Revival In Progress At Church

By H. C. Robertson

Irvine Morris is a patient in the Hazard Appalachian Hospital.

A revival meeting began at the Combs Baptist Church, June 20 at 7:00 p.m. Rev. Calvin Trent is the evangelist. Everyone is invited to attend.

The people of Combs are happy over the possibility of a recreation center. It would be a boost for Combs and would encourage more people to make their homes here. Most of all, it would be great for the young people of this area and adjoining areas.

Louise Cunningham and daughter, Betty Lou, are visiting her sons and families, Roy Lee, Albert, and Donald, all of Cincinnati.

Roy Lee Cunningham, an employee of Ford Motor Company in Cincinnati, has been transferred to San Juan, Puerto Rico, where he will live for six weeks.

Betty Jo Hughes, daughter of Bill and Bertie Lou Hughes, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Albert Cunningham, in Cincinnati.

Pauline Hoskins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hoskins, is visiting her parents over the weekend. She lives in Dayton, Ohio.

Your writer is pleased with the interest and attendance at the Combs Methodist Church. The church people are the best people in the world. If the millions of people that never enter a church or Sunday School would attend and change their ways of living, we would have

Combs Reunion Will Be Held Here Sunday, Aug. 15

The Combs Family Association who expects people to attend this year's annual gathering from all 50 states, has planned its 1965 Family Reunion for Sunday, August 15, at Memorial Gymnasium in Hazard, Kentucky, from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Making the event as Perry County's activity in the "Homecoming in Kentucky for 1965," the Combs clan expects more than 2,000 people at this year's occasion.

"Ben Combs of Lexington will serve as master of ceremonies this year with such notables as ex-New York Yankee star Earle Combs and former Governor Bert T. Combs speaking at the event," stated Gene Combs, president of the Combs Association.

Also included at this year's affair will be family displays and a program of entertainment. Pictures and articles of famous clansmen will be on display that day.

A 10:00 a.m. meeting will be conducted by the board of directors to elect new officers for the upcoming year.

$2 Million Worth of Bond Money Earmarked For Use In Southeastern Corner of Kentucky

The southeastern corner of Kentucky has approximately $2 million worth of bond issue money specifically earmarked for use in that area.

Such was the report given last Thursday night, June 17 to the Whitesburg Lions Club by Gilbert W. Kingsbury, executive director of the Kentucky Better Roads Council.

He also expressed confidence for the construction of local li- that the current problem over braries with local, state and U. S. 119 and other Appalach- federal participation.

County Health Centers: An- ved by Kentucky and federal other sum of $1.6 million for the construction of local cen- almost daily communication, h2 ters with local communities matching state and federal money.

In reporting on the Council's survey on funds earmarked for the area, Mr. Kingsbury reported that a million dollars has been set aside for the construction of a new community college in the Letcher-Perry area.

In addition, the University of Kentucky community colleges at Cumberland and Prestons- burg are to receive $350,000 each from the University's program to expand the school's technical and semi-professional curriculum.

Another $75,000, the speaker said, is earmarked for the construction of a forestry camp at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Mr. Kingsbury also outlined other programs in which the area will share.

Local Library Development: A total of $1.6 million dollars turning to the area on July 5 or after January 1, 1962.

for a sectional meeting of the organization at the VFW Club, Hazard. Dewey Daniel, Hazard banker, is to preside and Highway Commissioner Henry Ward will speak.

Reservations for the meeting may be made with Mr. Daniel, Vice President of the Council.

Bill To Provide Free Insurance

Senator John Sherman Cooper this week introduced a bill in the U. S. Senate to provide insurance of $10,000 without cost to members of the Armed Forces serving in combat zones outside the United States.

The bill gives to the President the authority to determine those combat zones in which units of the Armed Forces are engaged.

"I am introducing this bill specifically to provide protection to the dependents of members of our Armed Forces engaged in operations in Vietnam, in southeast Asia, and in the Dominican Republic," said Cooper.

The bill would apply to members of the Armed Forces engaged in combat operations on or after January 1, 1962.

Lothair And Hazard

We certainly want to congratulate the Hazard City Commission for its refreshing new attitude on the annexation of Lothair, as expressed at its meeting last Thursday.

If this attitude manifests itself in a tangible vote to annex Lothair to Hazard—and we are now confident that it will—then these Commissioners will have taken one of the greatest steps forward for our total community that any Commissioners have taken in recent memory.

The sound reasons for including Lothair within Hazard's city complex have been often stated. Principally, the move will allow Hazard to extend its sewage treatment and disposal facilities to Lothair, and thus eliminate a terrible source of possible contamination of our drinking water.

But for most practical purposes, Hazard and Lothair are already one, and have been for many years. They share a common school system, and a common water system. Lothair residents shop in Hazard. Hazard's utility systems are used in Lothair. Principal recreational facilities are located in Lothair at Perry Bowl and the golf course. Facilities available to Lothair residents include the Bobby Davis Library and Park and Memorial Gym in Hazard.

In these and many other ways, the two communities are linked. And the future will see them draw even more closely together than they are today, as they expand toward each other, destined to be linked intimately by houses and stores public facilities.

By uniting under one government now, our common community will avoid the pitfall that have struck the Louisville area, where six incorporated cities, each with separate water and sewer systems and separate governmental and law enforcement structures, are now frustrating their efforts to accommodate themselves to modern times.

Another major benefit to come from the annexation is the advantages towns of over 10,000 population have in obtaining federal assistance in the various developmental programs. Hazard will be in a much better bargaining position for federal assistance in years to come and Lothair will reap rewards from this fact as much as Hazard proper will.

These are practical reasons for Lothair and Hazard to come together under the same umbrella of local government.

One reason less tangible but just as important, if not more so, is simply that we all are neighbors, with a common heritage behind us.

Nature and fate have allowed us to settle here in this river valley along two adjacent and dramatic bends of the river. We have naturally grown up together. It simply makes good sense now for us to enter the mature years of our community, hand in hand.

The present City Commission deserves all our praise for its foresight, and its tremendous contribution to future of the community that our children will inherit.

A Trip To Frankfort

The anti strip-mine delegation to Frankfort Tuesday ran into a wall of governmental double-talk and many in the group came back to the mountains discouraged, feeling they had learned a horrible truth: a man doesn't have the right to own and manage his private property any more.

But these good people should take some comfort from their experience in Frankfort, because in most respects it was a very successful journey, regardless of the surface impressions of it.

It accomplished two main things: it made a significant contribution to the task of mobilizing public opinion against strip mining abuses. Everywhere they went, the mountaineers made a warm and sincere impression on those who saw them, and won many new friends in the process.

The other important thing the trip accomplished was a precise clarification of the issues, the answering of several important questions on which the Appalachian Group To Save Land And People can now formulate its plans for the future.

The Group learned that, although the present strip mining law is full of flaws and holes, certain sections of it might be employed to good advantage.

One suggestion that public pressure be brought to bear on the Department of Natural Resources to force it to quit issuing stripping permits on land that cannot be reclaimed is particularly good.

Many steep slopes of Perry and Letcher and Knott Counties cannot be reclaimed, and forcing the Department of Natural Resources to admit this and stop issuing permits is one goal the Group might well work toward.

The main thing the Group learned, however, is that the 1964 strip mine controls law must be drastically strengthened if the private land owners are to be protected in any way.

Natural Resources Commissioner J. O. Matlick and his department functionaries thought they were doing the delegation from the mountains a big favor by inviting it to tell them of specific violations of the 1964 strip mine law.

Then, in the next breath, Deputy Commissioner Robert Montgomery got up and said that "as we interpret the law," there have been no violations of the law on Clear Creek in Knott County!

That is what we mean when we say the delegation got nothing but double-talk in Frankfort. Because anyone who has any basic knowledge of strip mining knows that the 1964 law could be enforced to perfection, and still the ravage of private property would continue unabated.

If every stripper adhered to every letter of that law, still this destruction of privately-owned land would continue, and any discussion of the 1964 law is totally irrelevant to the complaints of the people whose private land and homes are being gouged up by bulldozers.

The Group learned these things in Frankfort. It knew them already, actually, but now they have been spelled out clearly by the government officials. This is something to take courage from, to draw new strength and determination from.

The Frankfort experience should challenge each and every owner of private land in danger of strip mining to now work twice as hard in the coming weeks for some protection for their private land, land the people thought they owned, land they are taxed for, land they realize now can be taken away from them, and quite "legally," right here in America.

Against City-Owned Gas Company

Open Letter To City Commissioners and Mayor

William C. Dawshare, Mayor
Eli C. Boggs, M. D.
C. B. Feltner, and
Jack Burnett
Gentlemen:

The owners of the gas company seem determined to sell this valuable asset of theirs, they say valuable in spite of the negative response shown two years ago. My reflection on this question is that we should first think about what are the basic functions of a municipality. I suggest the following are basic functions of a city government:

1. A stable form of government for the people living within the corporate limits.
2. Helping the citizens have certain needs they cannot have for themselves as individuals, for example:
 - a. Police protection.
 - b. Fire protection.
 - c. Sewer system and disposal plant.
 - d. Pure water, if no private company can furnish it.
 - e. Streets.
 - f. Parks.
 - g. Playgrounds.

By the very nature of the foregoing, a municipality must help provide things for the people living within its limits.

Under certain circumstances, perhaps a city of the third class could own and operate the following:

1. A telephone company.
2. TV tower and cable.
3. Electric power plant.
4. Newspaper.
5. A PX.
6. A small industry of some sort.

Any of these would be, to my mind, where private concerns cannot or could not furnish such service.

What is the need here for Hazard to assume bonded indebtedness of $850,000 to buy a pretty well worn out gas distribution system? What is wrong with the gas service the people of Hazard are getting now from a private company? Are there any complaints from citizens about the quality of the service or the cost of same?

A quick review of our problems, I believe, will convince anyone that the city fathers have enough unfinished business to out-last the youngest of them. Three urban renewal projects are to be finished, sewers need to be extended, upkeep of the streets, and the removal of garbage are some of the things that will require constant upkeep. Perhaps the biggest and most important thing facing the city fathers is water, water, WATER!!!

To help the people of Hazard have pure, palatable drinking water from this point is a large undertaking. Open sewers are a short distance above the City's intake, and if seen by the individual citizen of Hazard, I dislike to think what might be their reaction. Any route the City may take toward clean, palatable, and pure water is a long and expensive one. To annex Lothair, build the sewer lines, help the people pave their streets, and furnish the service the people of Lothair will require is a large undertaking.

New problems will normally arise which the City must deal with, and allowances should be made for those problems. It seems common knowledge of the citizens of Hazard that the City Manager under present circumstances, when well and at work, cannot be at the various places where he is needed.

If the gas company is so valuable and profitable, where are the businessmen of Hazard or other parts of Kentucky who are looking for places to invest their money? I am sure there are good reasons, known to the owners and not disclosed in their sales propaganda, why they would like to sell this gas company to the municipality of Hazard. I would guess that one big reason is that the miles of gas lines which were put down under cheap labor are about finished, and the owners of the present company do not relish trying to replace those miles of gas lines with present day prices of labor. Any pipe examined by an engineer from Lexington or New York could have only been examined at a point where someone connected with the company exposed the pipe because said engineer would have little idea where to dig to find a cross section of the underground pipe.

The present owners say that they want to sell at a cheap price. Why should the City buy an elephant because the price is cheap; the owners of the elephant say the price is cheap. In my humble opinion the municipality of Hazard has itself committed now with bonds and projects that will last far beyond the lifetime of you men in office. I believe it would be a poor investment for the City to buy the gas company unless there is a real need for the City to try and furnish gas service to its people. We have too much government in business as it is. I think it is a step in the wrong direction for the City to start into another business venture.

Personal Opinion

Caudill Replies To Bullard

I have read with considerable interest and amusement the letter of Fred B. Bullard, President of the Kentucky Coal Association, published on the front page of your paper on June 14, 1965. He makes several references to me upon which I would like to comment.

1. He states that Matt Holliday did not talk to the President or the Interior Secretary and implies very strongly that I prompted him to report that he had called them.

The fact is that I first read about this reported telephone conversation in the Courier Journal and never saw or talked to Matt Holliday in my life until the story was in the newspapers. I have no knowledge of whether Mr. Holliday is telling the truth about the incident or whether Mr. Bullard is telling the truth about it.

2. He states that I was ridiculous when I told a meeting at Hazard, Kentucky that there is no place safe from strip mining in the east Kentucky coal fields and that the coal operators would have absolutely no compunction against digging up the farms and the properties of the people throughout the area. The truth is that more than 90% of the mineral in each Kentucky coal field county is owned by non-resident corporations. The people could conceivably flee to the remaining 10% or follow the example of Mr. Bullard and move to Lexington. Mr. Bullard knows, as I do, that the coal companies are daily invading privately owned farms and forests and destroying them to the permanent detriment of the people and of the state.

3. Mr. Bullard states that an eastern Kentucky attorney, presumably myself, has been advising the Clear Creek people "possibly for financial gain." Mr. Bullard knows, as I do, that the people of Clear Creek have little money and that if I wanted financial gain I would join his group because they hold the multi-million dollar contracts for coal.

The truth about the matter is that the people of Clear Creek, Lost Creek and other communities in eastern Kentucky have just ground for fear and alarm. The coal companies are tearing up their surface lands, filling their streams with mud, increasing the threat of floods and disrupting invaluable forest lands. They are doing this in a callous and brutal manner. One of the men whose lands was invaded is a soldier for his country in Viet Nam. The operator did not request his consent or pay him damages before the bulldozers starting tearing down his trees and ripping up his earth.

Mr. Bullard and his Association have had their way in eastern Kentucky for many years. The people have accepted their word as wise and have followed their leadership. That leadership has led them down the road to ruin. Half the people have left the east Kentucky coal fields in the last 20 years and one-third of those who remain are on welfare. During the same interval of time wages paid to coal miners have declined by almost 50%. And yet Mr. Bullard expects us to believe that he and his associates are working for the economic development of eastern Kentucky.

The people of rural areas in eastern Kentucky don't need my opinion or the opinion of Mr. Bullard on this matter. They can see with their own eyes the destruction which is being done and they daily wade the mud which washes from the spoil banks. I would suggest that every eastern Kentuckian go look at the damage for himself and decide whether Mr. Bullard is right or whether the people of Clear Creek are right.

Incidentally, the research to which Mr. Bullard referred has so far produced a number of elderberry bushes, hailed as a new industry. Most Kentucky mountaineers have been chopping elderberry bushes down for years, finding them to be virtually worthless for all purposes.

To Sin By Silence

In personal conversation during the past couple of weeks, the Herald has asked at least 100 people, most of them here in Hazard, what they think about strip mining.

Almost without exception, they said they thought the method did land damage that could not be excused, and that much stronger controls were needed. Some advocated the outright elimination of strip mining. Even those who felt stripping should continue felt that the owners of the land deserved more protection, since it is their land that is being stripped, not the operator's.

Not only did most of the people we questioned agree that "something has to be done" about strip mining, they were also almost unanimous in their desire to not be quoted. "I can't afford to get involved," they said.

One businessman said he hated strip mining but since they had already stripped and ruined his land, he couldn't see much point in protesting against it now.

All of which reminds us of two famous quotes by Abraham Lincoln: "To sin by silence when they should protest makes cowards out of men."

We don't remember the exact words of the other quote, but, paraphrased, Lincoln said that he who is not willing to defend the rights and freedom of others does not deserve the rights and freedom he himself enjoys.

We agree with Lincoln.

New Nurses

One of the most pleasing things about the graduation last week of 15 new Practical Nurses from the Hazard Area Vocational School is that in addition to all that the diploma will mean to them as individuals, our entire local community gains measurably also.

Here we have 15 young women who, a year ago, had no particular skill and no particularly promising job opportunities either. But because they were determined and willing to work and study hard, and because the federal government made the training available, the new Practical Nurses are now in a position to find employment with security and dignity, and at the same time to make a needed contribution to a land starved for trained medical personnel.

We wish to express our congratulations and admiration to these girls, and to encourage others to follow their example.

Congressmen Discuss Strip Mining In Letters To The Editor

Says TVA To Blame

Letter To The Editor

Why should the American tax payers have to subsidize the mags strip mine destruction created by the Tennessee Valley Authority in this region? I notice our government has earmarked over six million dollars to try and rebuild this mountain region. Anyone who has seen the Ravaged Land pictures by the Courier Journal or last Sunday's pictures by the Courier Journal of the mass destruction created in our Cumberland National Forest by strip mining, knows that money cannot rebuild these mountains after they have been strip mined.

Unfair prices paid by TVA created this destruction, fair prices would prevent more of it. TVA's prices has and, is breaking hundreds of mine operators and forcing the miners to work for low wages. TVA operated last year at $223,000,000 million dollar profit while the constructive mine operators worked at a loss. Fair prices would naturally cut TVA profits, but would also stop this strip mine destruction and would let the coal miners and their employers make a decent living.

The authority as written only allows TVA to use ten per cent of their own hydro-electric power for their own power purposes, everything out side of this is in violation of the laws as written. They are in the steam power business, the coal, land, timber, fertilizer and park business. Only God knows what will be next if they are permitted to go on. This makes TVA, a government owned agency, the highest law violator in our nation.

Every coal miner in Eastern Kentucky badly needs better wages but cannot get them because TVA destroyed the steam coal prices and also our beautiful mountain country. We didn't need the free hand-outs of our tax-payers money to pay able bodied men to rot work. We need our government to pay fair coal prices and stop being the destroyer before Eastern Kentucky is totally destroyed.

If this destruction keeps up all the proposed highway system in Eastern Kentucky can offer is transportation for tourists to see a country destroyed by our government. After all I guess, this could be a great lesson for our country . . . a great lesson in Socialism at work destroying free enterprise.

Sincerely,
Lewis Howard

Letter From Morton

To The Editor:

This is to acknowledge receipt of your letter of June 9. Strip-mining of coal is, relatively speaking, a new technology in an old industry of Eastern Kentucky, and like so many growing industries it has created perplexing problems which regulations tends to be slow in catching up.

Regulation of strip-mining is basically a state responsibility, and the Kentucky General Assembly in 1964 enacted comprehensive amendments to the basic 1954 Act in an effort to minimize the injurious effects of strip-mining.

The federal government has taken increased cognizance of strip-mining practices. Extensive research is being done at the Berea Forest Service Experiment Station, and the Appalachian program endorses a program of reclamation and restoration on so-called "public" lands. This, unfortunately, has caused problems as far as Kentucky's plans are concerned since the major problems are on private lands. I'm hopeful that something can be worked out.

As you know, old deeds separated surface and mineral rights to coal. Leases executed under these deeds, as I understand them, generally give the operator free rein to mine the coal. I don't think there is any doubt that surface owners have suffered from strip-mining, and it appears that court action is the only recourse at this time.

Sincerely yours,
Thurston B. Morton

Citizen Detests Loud Speaker

Dear Editor:

I wonder if you will be so kind as to print my letter as an angry housewife in the hopes that I can get support from some other people that feel as I do in stopping what I consider a No. 1 nuisance in Hazard.

Namely, the loud speaker system over in the L&N Rail road yards! Not everybody in Hazard has air conditioning and from where I live up here on the point, I might as well be in front of the Hazard Drug Store and have it across the street on the old court house steps!

Not only is it booming all through the day, it goes on all night, also, giving orders in that loud "ghost" voice and more annoying at times, animated conversations as well.

When those railroad men go home after their eight hour shift there in the yards, they expect to get a good sleep and rest and quiet, but as soon as one of them leaves that loud speaker to go home, another one takes his place and we poor souls have to listen, whether we like it or not!

I know the slogan is "business comes first", but as I recall, on two occasions loud speakers were declared a nuisance in Hazard. A Swedish preacher up here on the hill in that little church above the railroad yards was constantly broadcasting his sermons. Mr. Dauce, a Baptist preacher who lived on College Street, woke his neighbors every morning with a sermon so loud that even his fellow members in the church protested.

The railroad has managed for years without that loud speaker. Please can't they do so again?

Hoping for support,
Mrs. Edgar A. Dixon
616 Highland Ave.

Letter From Perkins

To The Editor:

I appreciate very much your letter relating to strip-mining operations in our area. Ever since I came to Congress, I have cast my vote for the strongest water pollution control laws possible and for the strongest conservation measures possible. The time has arrived when we must all practice better conservation methods. The Kentucky Water Pollution Control Commission along with the State Natural Resources Commissioner, J. O. Matlick, have authority in this area.

This is a matter which has been of great concern to me for many years originating with my experiences as a young attorney abstracting titles on many old mineral deeds. It has always been my thinking in analyzing these old conveyances that the practices which are destroying the scenic beauty of our area, polluting our streams and marring our recreation potential were never contemplated by the parties to those original deeds. The original intent on the part of the parties to those instruments was that coal would be mined in the usual prudent manner without undue interference with the surface rights.

Conservation of our natural resources of soil and timber are vital in the future growth and economic development of all our eastern Kentucky area. I am particularly concerned at this time that the removal of the tops of hills and mountains in stripping operations will greatly impair our reservoir program because of the siltation and pollution of streams which inevitably result from these extensive practices.

I appreciate very much your letter.

SPRINGTIME CAN COME ANYTIME THIS YEAR

Whatever the season outside, an electric heat pump brings springtime inside the home. The temperature never varies... unless you want it to. You get gentle, warm air in winter... cool, refreshing air in summer.

With a flameless electric heat pump in your home, you have your own private "weather machine"—climate control 365 days a year. Not only does it provide a constant year around indoor temperature, it filters the air you breathe and automatically removes excess moisture during hot, humid months. We call this "comfort conditioning."

You can be sure of the dependable quality of an electric heat pump. And your actual heating and cooling costs can be accurately calculated in advance. Check with us today for all the facts about an electric heat pump that brings "eternal spring" to your home.

Writer Approves of Candidates

By John Lucas

Mrs. Mary Hall, of West Haymond, was taken to the hospital a few days ago, but is now at home.

I understand that the people of Whitesburg were talking about Cloud City a few days ago with men from Washington. To this writer, it seems to be only a pipe dream. You will recall that some of our people wanted the government to build a city on top of Pine Mountain for a tourist attraction. I think we had better induce our people to try farming and build a cannery or two in the county. People are too lazy and too dependent on our government and other sources.

Now that our primary election is over and the defeated candidates have cooled down, we think we have a good ticket for November. The three we think are sure to win are: Judge James M. Caudill for County Judge, Charlie Wright for County Clerk, and Virginia Craft for Coroner. Our County Attorney Mr. John Cornett, who has been appointed to fill the term of Mr. Stanley Hogg, who went to join his wife in Korea, was elected for the next four years. Mr. Sam T. Webb, our present tax commissioner, was also unopposed and elected by default.

Cooper Awarded Honorary Degree At Pittsburgh University June 7

Senator John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.) was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree at commencement exercises of the University of Pittsburgh on Monday, June 7. The University honored Senator Cooper along with Governor William Scranton of Pennsylvania, Senator Jennings Randolph of West Virginia, and Sargent Shriver, Director of the Office of Economic Opportunity and the Peace Corps.

The University awarded honorary degrees to these our national figures in recognition of their leadership and support of programs aimed at providing greater economic opportunity for the citizens and families of communities all over Kentucky and nearby States. In awarding the honorary degrees to Senator Cooper, the University called the Senator:

"A man whose devotion to his country has taken him to distant parts of the world, but never for so extended a time that he would be separated long from his native State. Born in the Appalachian foothills at Somerset he has been called unpartisan. His approach to issues is essentially legal, his style of debate is one of earnest persuasion, and he is fearless when faced with the moral issues of politics. His Republicanism traces from Lincoln, through Theodore Roosevelt to Dwight Eisenhower. He believes that his Party has an historic role to play in assuring civil rights to all citizens, as well as in providing the educational and economic opportunities necessary to realize the potential of those rights. Representative of the finest in the senatorial tradition, he was returned in 1960 by the largest majority ever given by Kentuckians to any candidate for public office."

It Isn't The Church—It's You

If you want to have the kind of a church
Like the kind of a church you like,

You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
And start on a long, long hike.

You'll only find what you left behind,
For there's nothing really new.

It's a knock at yourself when you knock at your church;
It isn't the church—it's you.

When everything seems to be going wrong,
And trouble seems everywhere brewing;

When prayer meeting, Young People's meeting, and all,
Seems simmering slowly—stewing,

Just take a look at yourself and say,
"What's the use of being blue?"

Are you doing your "bit" to make things "hit"?
It isn't the church—it's you.

It's really strange sometimes, don't you know,
That things go well as they do,

When we think of the little—the very small mite—
We add to the work of the few.

We sit, and stand round, and complain of what's done,
And do very little but fuss.

Are we bearing our share of the burdens to bear?
It isn't the church—it's us.

So, if you want to have the kind of a church
Like the kind of a church you like,

Put off your guile, and put on your best smile,
And hike, my brother, just hike,

To the work in hand that has to be done—
The work of saving a few.

It isn't the church that is wrong, my boy;
It isn't the church—it's you.

Jailer Sues For Back Pay

Perry County Jailer, William "Bill" Kelly, sued the Perry County Fiscal court Thursday, June 24, for back pay for the months of October 1964 thru May 1965.

Those involved in the suit get to pay the claims or any are: William Wooton, Perry County Treasurer; Perry County Judge Babe C. Noplis, Aetna Casualty And Surety Company of Connecticut, and Irvine Moore, Emory Noble, Han Napier, Pearl Strong, Bradley Combs, Fess Halcom, Thornton G. and Curt Engle, Justices of the Peace.

Prisoner Causes Headache For Bill Kelly, Jr.

A prisoner at the Perry County Jail got out of hand last Friday afternoon and caused some headaches before things got back to normal.

Hugh Moore, who was arrested last Thursday night by Kentucky State Police on a public drunkenness charge, reportedly called deputy jailer Bill Kelly Jr. to his cell.

When Kelly entered the enclosed area Moore struck him on the head with a piece of water pipe that he had extracted from the plumbing facilities in the cell.

Kelly had three stitches taken to heal one of the wounds on his head.

Mrs. Bill Kelly got in on the fracas. She tried to calm Moore down but in the time received cuts and bruises for her unsuccessful attempt to stop the battle.

Hazard City Police were called to the scene transported Moore to City Jail.

Moore was later taken back to County Jail and then transferred to Danville on Saturday.

Physicians In 5 Counties Invited To Heart Clinic

Physicians in the five counties of Harlan, Knott, Leslie, Letcher and Perry have been invited to take part in the one-day consultative and diagnostic heart clinic for medically indigent children to be held in the Leslie County Health Department, Hyden, on Wednesday, July 14, 1965.

Conducting the clinic will be Dr. Jacqueline A. Noonan and Dr. Jack Reeves, both from the University of Kentucky Medical Center.

Co-sponsored by the Kentucky Heart Association and the State and County Health Departments, the clinic provides a diagnostic service for the patient, along with recommendations for treatment and management of the case. It also provides an opportunity for the referring physician to consult with the clinician regarding his patient.

Necessary expenses of the clinic are being underwritten by the Kentucky Heart Association and the State Health Department. Clinic personnel, as well as space and equipment, will be provided by the Leslie County Health Department and the State Health Department.

Only those medically indigent children who have been referred by a physician and have a written referral will be admitted to the clinic.

State Officials Break Ground At West Liberty

Breaking ground last Saturday (June 19) at West Liberty for the new $500,000 plant of LYCOMING SHOE COMPANY are from left Joe Haney, president of the Morgan County Development Association; Paul G. Williams, chairman of the board of the company; Kentucky Commissioner of Commerce Katherine Peden; Former Governor Bert T. Combs; and Seventh District Congressman Carl D. Perkins. Some 3,000 persons attended the ground breaking and dedication of a new West Liberty-Morgan County airport which adjoins the 9 acre factory site. An air show and horse show rounded out the program for Industry Appreciation Day in West Liberty and Morgan County. Plans call for the West Liberty plant that will employ up to 300 persons to be completed and in operation by October.

Car Wreck Near Hyden Claims 3 Lives Thursday

One of the worst traffic accidents to ever happen in this area occurred last Thursday afternoon about 1 mile East of Hyden on Kentucky 80 and took the lives of a Hyden man, his two daughters, and critically injured the wife and mother.

According to Kentucky State Police a 1963 model coal truck, operated by Roy Lee Smallwood, 21, of Manchester, was traveling East on Kentucky 80 about 8 mile from the intersection of U. S. 421 and Ky. 80 when it spun out of control on a curve and strayed across the dividing line into the west bound traffic lane.

The 5 ton tandem truck met a 1965 model pickup truck, driven by Augustus Cornett, 55, of Hyden. Cornett left the highway and turned onto a side road to avoid a head on collision. The coal truck struck the pickup in the left rear doing minor damage.

A 1962 model auto, operated by Davis Campbell, 46, of Hyden was following the pickup. Campbell attempted to cut out of the west bound traffic lane and avoid the collision but could not do so. The coal truck struck the Campbell auto killing Campbell and his 13 year old daughter Nancy Susan Campbell. Mrs. Joyce Adams of Letcher, Jo Ann Campbell, 16, was Kentucky and Mrs. Wanda Morris of Castletown, Virginia also survive.

Mrs. Campbell is listed in critical condition at the same hospital.

The Campbell's were returning to Hyden from Hazard after attending the funeral of Mr. Campbell's sister, Helen, who died earlier last week.

According to Kentucky State Police, Smallwood told the investigating officer that he was traveling at approximately 35-40 miles per hour at the time of the crash.

Mr. Campbell was employed as an electrician for a Hyden Coal Company. He was a veteran of World War II and had been a resident of Hyden for the past seven years.

Survivors are the wife and mother Lillie Smith Campbell; Mr. Campbell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Campbell of Airport Gardens; Three brothers, Carlos of Hazard, Don of Christian and Thomas of New Lebanon, Ohio, and two sisters, Mrs. Joyce Adams of Letcher, Jo Ann Campbell, 16, was Kentucky and Mrs. Wanda Morris of Castletown, Virginia also survive.

Governor Promises "No Skyrrocketing" Of County Taxes

Governor Edward T. Breathitt said today the Court of Appeals assessment decision won't bring "an abrupt skyrocketing of taxes" in Perry County as long as I am governor.

Breathitt urged local officials to reduce tax rates to offset higher assessments.

"It would be totally unfair not to reduce the tax rates," the Governor said. "It could rimrock many good Kentuckians in modest circumstances."

Breathitt, in personal letters to local officials, said taxpayers deserve to be told promptly and clearly that property tax rates will be reduced.

He said he is planning to ask the 1966 State Legislature to reduce state tax rates in keeping with his campaign pledge of a balanced budget with no new taxes.

Breathitt pointed out that the Court's decision will not affect property taxes in 1965. He said it would be 1966 before the ruling goes into effect.

"This timetable gives fiscal courts, school boards and other local taxing bodies plenty of time to make adjustments," he said.

"As a matter of fact," the governor said, "it is strictly up to the people of Perry County to determine if they want to give additional support to schools or any other government-sponsored project."

Breathitt said the Court's decision resulted from a lawsuit brought by a group of Jefferson County taxpayers.

The suit pointed out that the State Constitution says — and has always said — that property shall be assessed at its fair cash value, Breathitt said.

Breathitt said Kentucky's assessments have skidded down until the average real estate

Funeral Services Held For Arch B. Caudill, 59

Lothair Property Owners Meet to Discuss Annexation of Lothair to City of Hazard

Forty property owners in the Lothair area gathered at the Lothair School last Thursday night to show their opposition to the annexation of Lothair to the City of Hazard.

Perry County Sheriff Charlie Combs called the meeting.

An informal vote of those in attendance showed 29 against the issue in question while 11 voted yes on the matter.

The annexation issue came up a few months ago when the State Department of Health asked the city of Hazard to annex Lothair in an effort to prevent the dumping of raw sewage into the river above Hazard.
